High School Student Programs

Running Start
Room BE1107D  206 587-3820
You can get a head start on your college education while still in high school, and get on a fast track to reaching your ultimate career goals. Running Start gives qualified 11th or 12th grade students the opportunity to take credit classes at Seattle Central. You'll receive both college and high school credit for these classes, and tuition is paid by the state. Talk to your counselor about requirements, or call 206 587-3820.

Tech Prep
Tech Prep is a technical education program, which will prepare you for high demand jobs. It enables you to get community college credit for approved high school classes, then continue on to the technical college program of your choice in the Seattle Community Colleges. You may enter the program as early as the ninth grade. For more information, talk to your counselor or career center specialist.

High School Completion Program
Room BE1107  206 587-5450
The High School Completion Program provides students with opportunities to complete a diploma. The student must complete the process for admissions, submit an official high school transcript for evaluation, and complete the COMPASS placement testing to determine eligibility into the courses needed for high school completion. For information, call 206 587-5450.

Seattle Central’s Graphic Design Program
April 4 through April 15
The Graphic Design Program presents works from first and second year students reflecting the excellence, creativity, and energy of the graphic arts program. Faculty from this highly respected Seattle Central program have selected students works which exemplify the range of mastery that has made graduates from the program highly sought after by many of the region's top design firms. Spotlighted this year are artisan books created by second-year students.
